

Give me your tired,
your poor,
your huddled masses
yearning to breathe free.

America gave him opportunity. Now Sid Saab is giving back.

At age 19, Sid Saab took a one-way flight to America. He fled war-torn Lebanon as a legal immigrant chasing the dream of opportunity, liberty and equality for all.

Like most immigrants, he took whatever job he could from cleaning bathrooms to delivering phone books. At the start, it was hard and miserable. His first birthday in America, he spent by himself eating at Burger King.

But America kept giving to Sid Saab and he worked hard to make the best of his opportunities.

At age 19, Sid Saab embraced the American Dream

Authority: Citizens for Saab, Sarah Saab, Treasurer.

His story is America's story

Sid Saab worked starting small businesses and earned enough to buy a home and start a family. With his wife, Sarah, they have three children in public schools.

So, Sid decided to give back to the country that gave him everything. He got involved in the community and was elected to the Maryland House of Delegates. There he worked with Governor Hogan to pass common sense policies to improve schools, fight crime and hold down taxes.

Sarah and Sid are raising three children

Helping People, not Special Interests

Sid Saab became a Republican because that was the party that promoted opportunity. But he knows America is bigger than our political parties. That's why in the House of Delegates he set a record of working across party lines, compromising to get things done for people including:

- Prioritized funding for mental health and combating opioid abuse.
- Fought efforts to defund the police.
- Getting politics out of schools and focus on give children a world class education
- Breaking the power of political parties with term limits and ending closed primaries.
- Repealed taxes that hurt the middle class
- Passed laws to protects seniors from abuse.
- Opposed inflation-causing out-of-control spending.

Sid Saab is working with Governor Hogan to pass common sense policies

Putting People First | www.SidSaab.com